

CERVICAL CANCER PREVENTION: 20 YEARS OF PROGRESS & A PATH TO THE FUTURE

Grimaldi Forum, Monte Carlo (MONACO)
February 17-20, 2010

EUROGIN's History and Contributions

- European Research Organization on Genital Infection and Neoplasia (EUROGIN) held its first official congress in Paris in 1994.
- Has become a major clinical and scientific forum for discussions about prophylactic HPV vaccines and new screening methods for cervical cancer control.
- Multidisciplinary congresses attract clinicians, basic scientists, epidemiologists, microbiologists, public health practitioners, health economists, disease advocates, and industry-based researchers.
- Initially triennial conferences in Paris; now nearly annual congresses in Nice and Monte Carlo.
- Mission of educating clinicians and the public health community about diagnostic and prevention tools for the control of genital infections and its associated neoplastic diseases.

EUROGIN's History and Contributions (2)

- Based in France and originally aimed as an education and clinical discussion forum for European countries.
- EUROGIN quickly acquired an international scope and expanded the roster of specialties and subspecialties that cater to the control of cervical cancer and other HPV-associated diseases.
- Has inspired the establishment of sister organizations in Latin America and Asia to focus on specific problems at a regional level.
- 2010 Congress with the motto "CERVICAL CANCER PREVENTION: 20 YEARS OF PROGRESS AND A PATH TO THE FUTURE"
- First EUROGIN congress since Professor Harald Zur Hausen's Nobel Prize in Physiology and Medicine (Keynote address in 2010).
